

I didn't build a culture practice
because I care
about companies.

I thought work stayed at work. Turns out, it goes home with everybody in the building.

I built it because people spend most of their waking hours at work, and whatever happens there
follows them home.

I thought I could keep work at work...

Turns out, what happens at the office and what happens at the dinner table are the same conversation.

A man with a short beard and bald head, wearing a dark suit jacket over a light-colored patterned shirt, is shown from the chest up. He is looking off to the right with a slight smile. The background is a blue, textured curtain. The text is overlaid on the lower half of the image.

Someone on your team is already taking your Tuesday home to their kids.

YOUR LEADERSHIP
FOLLOWS
PEOPLE HOME.

A man with a beard and a microphone is speaking. A large black cone graphic is positioned above his head. The background is dark and textured.

Maybe your people aren't disengaged
at work. You've just never counted what they carry out of it.

You don't need to care harder. You need to stop pretending the building has walls.

A man with a shaved head and a goatee, wearing a dark suit and a light-colored shirt, stands in profile facing right. He is positioned next to a dark, rectangular podium. On top of the podium is a professional stage spotlight that is turned on, casting a bright beam of light. The background is a dark, textured curtain. The overall lighting is dramatic, with the spotlight illuminating the man's face and the podium.

If your team described you at their own dinner
table, what would they say?

A man in a dark suit and tie is speaking at a podium in a dark arena. He is looking to his left and has a microphone in front of him. The background is dark with some structural elements visible.

I built The Ripple Experience
because growth
here creates impact everywhere.
